Reading Reflections

Overview

Each week, submit a brief written reflection on that week's assigned readings. These reflections help you synthesize material and prepare for class discussions.

Requirements

Length: 250-350 words

Frequency: Weekly (due Sunday 11:59 PM)

Format: Word document or PDF

Submission: D2L Brightspace

Reflection Prompts

Choose one of the following prompts each week (or propose your own):

Prompt A: Key Takeaways

- Summarize the main arguments from this week's readings
- What surprised you or challenged your thinking?
- How do these readings connect to previous weeks?

Prompt B: Real-World Connection

- Find a current news article related to this week's topic
- Explain how the readings illuminate or complicate the news story
- What questions does this raise?

Prompt C: Critical Analysis

- Identify assumptions or limitations in the readings
- Do you agree or disagree with the authors' arguments?
- What additional perspectives are missing?

Prompt D: Personal Reflection

- How do this week's concepts relate to your own life and experiences?
- What ethical questions emerge for you?
- How might this change your perspective on AI or society?

Rubric

Criteria	Excellent	Good	Satisfactory	Needs Work
Understanding	Demonstrates sophisticated comprehension of readings	Shows solid understanding of main ideas	Grasps basic concepts	Misses key points
Analysis	Thoughtful, critical engagement with ideas	Analyzes key arguments	Basic analysis present	Mostly summary
Writing	Clear, well-organized, few errors	Generally clear and organized	Understandable with some confusion	Difficult to follow
Depth	Goes beyond surface level; makes connections	Explores ideas meaningfully	Adequate coverage	Superficial treatment

Tips for Strong Reflections

1. Read actively: Annotate key passages and questions
2. Synthesize: Connect ideas across readings
3. Be specific: Use examples and quotes
4. Show your thinking: It's okay to express uncertainty
5. Proofread: Check for clarity and proper grammar

Accessibility

If you find dense academic writing challenging: - Use text-to-speech tools - Request article summaries from instructor - Break readings into smaller chunks - Use highlighters or annotation tools

Reflections will be evaluated on your engagement and thinking, not on reading speed or comprehension level.
