Your Update Feedback Is In

- Every group met the standard. Nice work.
- A summary is on D2L. It includes a numbered fix list for the Full Case.
- Three comments are attached to specific passages in your Doc.
- Same process as Monday: the judgments are mine, and I used Claude for research and editing. Verify before you cite.

Full Case II (Part B) is due Tues, Oct 27.

Pattern 1: The Deployment Is the Case

Many of you found great official records. Many of those are lawsuits.

- The case is the system in use: who used which tool, on whom, and since when.
- The lawsuit, complaint, or settlement is the evidence about that case.
- An allegation is not a finding. "The complaint alleges…" and "the AG alleged…, which the company denied" are not the same as "it proved."

Pattern 2: Did the Tool Fail, or the People?

This is the live disagreement in several groups. It's also the line between Tools and Practices.

- Tools: was the output wrong?
- Practices: what did people conclude from it, who checked, and who signed off?
- A correct output can still lead to a harmful decision. A human "in the loop" counts only if they had the time and information to say no.

> If your group disagrees, write down both positions and argue them in the pillars.

"The Model Is Proprietary. Is That OK?"

Many groups asked this. Yes. You can still meet the standard. Here's how:

- Build Tools from official descriptions: court records, settlements, regulator findings, company filings.
- Keep documented, alleged, and inferred separate.
- Use research on similar tools, and label it as such.
- Say what you looked for and couldn't find, and who holds it. That's a finding.

Today

1. Read your Update summary and comments together (~10 min)
2. Divide up your fix list: who owns each item before Oct 27?
3. Then: work on Full Case II (Part B)

We'll be circulating. Ask us anything.

Exit Ticket

- Today's Exit Ticket is posted on D2L.
- Complete it before 11:59pm tonight.
